

NEWSLETTER

This newsletter contains the Annual Report for the church.

Please take the time to read it carefully.

This is a time of change for Arbor Covenant Church. It is important that each of us assume responsibility for the direction we will head. The Leadership Team has been exploring new directions and now wants to know where you want the church to go. Take the time to read the reports. Talk with each other and members of the Leadership Team.

In politics today, there is much emphasis on the importance of voting. It is easy to say that those who don't vote have no reason to complain about the results. While it is hard to imagine that one vote sometimes makes a big difference, we all know that many votes have large consequences.

Our church is a bit different. We are a body of believers who try to follow God as we walk the path of life, discerning together where and how God is moving and where and how we can best participate in that movement.

It is important to ask (and to answer) the question:

Where do you see God at work in Arbor Covenant Church?

Remember we can trust God to lead.

Share what you're seeing and sensing.

Pray for the church.

Pray for those who are leading us.

And looks for opportunities to participate

Summer Camp Registration is Open!

Pick up a brochure from the counter in the church hall, or check the camp websites for information about summer camp programs. Some camps are already full! See Rachel Woofter with any questions.

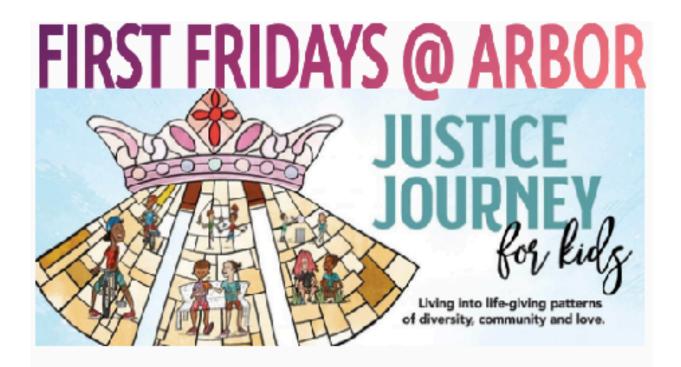

Prayer Corner:

- -As we consider the future opportunities for Arbor, pray specifically for the families and kids that enter our doors every day of the week!
- -Pray for our summer camps as they hire summer staff and register campers.
- -Pray for the Friday Fun Night program--for the kids & families who come, and the adults who help out.

Laugh for the day - A few weeks ago, Pastor Peter was trying to explain the concept of "grace upon grace" to Will, James and JoJo. He created the model on the table as an example. Neither Will nor James understood what this had to do with their sister Grace and JoJo was off in another thought. Pastor Peter volunteered that many times the Children's Corner is for the adults rather than the kids. Hope you got it!!

Closing Prayer

When they returned to Jerusalem after 70 years in exile, the people of Judah expected to resettle in the city of their collective memory. They had longed to return to their home, with its walls and dwellings, the tilled fields and productive agriculture that surrounded it, and especially its focal point – its center, its beating heart – the Temple. They wanted a return to normal, a return to the good old days, a return to how things once had been. But the reality they found, after decades of dislocation, was anything but that. The city was in ruins, walls crumbling, fields suffering from neglect, the Temple a pile of rubble.

It was a demoralizing reality. So much had been lost. Recovery would require years and even duplicating the city's prior beauty or replicating its previous greatness would be all but impossible. Reconstructing their spiritual epicenter and the life that orbited around it must have seemed unimaginable. It wasn't long before the initial hopes sparked by the people's return began to give way to despair. How would they ever be able to pick up the pieces of what had been broken and rebuild their lives and community?

The experience of the post-exilic community isn't completely unlike those of many congregations like Arbor Covenant. Clearly, we haven't been forced to live through the same trauma or suffer the same violent, degrading fate, but we do find ourselves looking around at a reality that doesn't always match up to our expectations or correspond with our collective memory. The religious landscape has changed. People's patterns of participation in church have shifted. The models of congregational life that may have once felt like the beating heart of our communities have been broken down and left in ruins. And we're left to wonder if and how we can rebuild.

In their despair the post-exilic community received a message, "Take courage...says the Lord; work, for I am with you.... My spirit abides among you: do not fear" (Haggai 2:4-5). With these words of encouragement and promise they pushed forward, knowing that even if things didn't look exactly like they used to, God's enduring presence would remain among them, promising them a future filled with hope.

Just like it did among them, the presence of God's spirit persists among us, abiding with us as we press forward into a future that may not look exactly like our past. It moves and will move among us as we pick up broken pieces, grieve losses, receive new gifts, and pursue fresh opportunities. As it does, it will undoubtedly challenge us to see things differently, to change our thinking, to seek new relationships with new friends and potential partners. That same Spirit will nudge us to be creative and courageous and wise as we endeavor to share the good news with our community and steward well our resources.

In 2019, Arbor Covenant Church began to live into this reality. Aware that things around us and among us have changed, we began to seek out new opportunities and pursue fresh possibilities. We renewed our commitment to our neighborhood and began to reimagine how we can utilize our space and our property as a community asset that empowers more people to pursue God's vision of justice and beauty. We have established a collaborative relationship with another congregation (Foundry 414); worshipping together, learning from each other, sharing resources and encouragement. In the face of denominational turmoil, we renewed our congregational commitment to theological diversity and broadened our embrace of inclusion.

Challenges persist, living into the new future God intends for us won't come without headaches, frustrations, or lingering questions. We may find that God's future requires us to make some hard decisions, but we can be sure that God's Spirit remains with us now and always.

Before completing my report, I want to take a moment to offer my thanks. This was not an easy year for my family. Your support was a reminder of what a gift it is to have community and a tangible expression of God's love. I thank you for that and for the courageous ways you've begun to imagine life and ministry at Arbor. Living into the future that God intends will require some audacity and creativity – your willingness over the last half year or so to begin new conversations has begun this process and it's renewed my spirit and given me hope.

Grace & Peace, Rev. Peter J. Morris

2019 Report of the Church Chair

Greetings Members and Friends of Arbor Covenant Church.

As an historian, I am a firm believer in using valued historical documents. The following is a quote from an Arbor Covenant Church 2015 Leadership Team report. "As Arbor Covenant's Leadership Team, we have been wrestling the last few months with the Leadership Team's role in the church. Why do we exist? Yes we are responsible for making sure that certain essential things occur such as maintaining our facilities, being good stewards of our financial resources, encouraging congregational care of our individual members and friends, and contributing as part of our neighborhood and community. But, as we are becoming increasingly aware, our responsibilities extend much to the future. Leadership involves having a vision for the Arbor Covenant of the future. Where is God leading us? What part does Arbor Covenant play in this plan? How will we recognize it? What change will be necessary? It has already started and will truly continue to be a journey with unexpected surprises along the way. Let's join together in following the path that the Lord is setting before us." (2015 Leadership Team) "Leaders Don't Force People to Follow, They Invite Them on the Journey"

That "journey together" continued to be evident throughout 2019. All of our members contributed to its Leadership, Preaching, Children Church, First Friday Fun Night, the Newsletter/Communication, Worship Team, Hospitality, Missions, Congregational Care and in many other ways. We had summer fun days; Concert on the Square, Pontoon Boat Ride and other gatherings. We honored Dick Lindgren as a charter member. In March of 2019, Pastor Peter was able to take a much-needed sabbatical. We welcomed beautiful babies, grandbabies and great grandbabies into our congregational and into our hearts. And we thank God for them.

On Pastor Peter's return at the April 23, 2019 Leadership Team Meeting, we heard how God was speaking to him regarding a Vision plan for Arbor Church. This led us to explore how we should move forward as a Leadership Team. The result was that we spent many hours looking at "Where Do We go From Here." After many prayers and discussions, the Leadership Team presented, at the August 2019 Congregational Meeting, three pathways with a recommendation to continue work to develop and enhanced connections with community partners. We committed to review our progress at the Annual Meeting and the June 2020 Congregational Meeting 2020.

At our Leadership Team meetings, we continue to ask the question "How is God speaking to us?" We believe that this time of extended devotion is an important part of our monthly meetings. This year we felt led to take a very important public stance as a Leadership Team and as a Congregation. The outcome was to develop and publish a Dissent Position from the ECC Position on human sexuality. The Dissent Position was put to a vote at the August 25, 2019 Congregational Meeting. (The Dissent Position passed, more than meeting the required 2/3 vote.)

Our church building has become a place of welcome for many organizations in the community. Many congregants have contributed their time, gifts and resources in many ways this past year. Thanks to all for your commitment to the various activities of the church.

"And in all things we seek to honor God"

The Leadership Team: Mark Hanson Vice - Chair, Ulrika Swanson Tres., Rachel Woofter Sec., Jan Gietzel, Paul Kent, Dan Meyers, Kris Brown, and Rev. Peter Morris Joyce Boggess - Chair

Winter/Spring Internship Proposal

As part of our vision for the future of Arbor, the leadership team would like to bring on David Schulz as an intern to support and expand current ministry with fresh collaboration. This position will also strengthen our relationship with Foundry414 church and offer our community as an educational field. David currently works as an intern with Foundry414 church, and his commitment to Arbor would be from February through June (5 months). His primary duties would be preaching and planning a worship service one Sunday per month, developing joint programs with Foundry414, offering pastoral care and visitation, working with the kids Friday Fun Nights, and working as a conversation and collaboration partner with Pastor Peter. The internship will be unpaid, not to exceed 20 hours per month, though David will be paid for the five Sundays (one per month) of preaching & leading worship.

2019 Children's Ministry Report

This year continued with much of the same programming that we have offered for kids in the past few years. Children's church during the Sunday worship service and monthly Friday night programs for kids are the staples of our children's ministry, and we have maintained steady attendance at both. On Friday nights, there are typically about 10 kids, and most parents or grandparents stay during the program. This has created a really nice community on many Friday nights; this fall & winter we celebrated the pregnancies and births of two new babies in this group. We also celebrated both Easter and Christmas with special music and programs that included both kids and the whole congregation. It has been both exciting and meaningful to me to watch relationships develop between kids and congregation members, and see how many kids feel comfortable in our church building.

As we have started to shift our view of Arbor and explore what it means to be more of a community center, I have also started to shift who I think of as the "children of Arbor Covenant." In addition to the kids who regularly attend on Sunday mornings (often 3-5 on a typical week), there are a number of kids who regularly attend our Friday programs, and even more who visit the Personal Essentials Pantry with their family and are enrolled at Creek Day School. I invite you to join me in that shift of thinking, and consider all of these kids—even the ones we may never see on Sundays—as "our kids." The typical ministry pattern of Children's Church, Sunday School, and a midweek gathering are likely not a good fit for these groups of kids. So, as we continue to envision a new Arbor Covenant, let's make sure we are including the children around us in the dreaming and planning.

Women's Ministry at Arbor in 2019

The women of Arbor Covenant held our annual book review night in the spring of 2019. We had a great time reviewing some of the books we had read as well as enjoying a salad dinner. Thanks to the women and men who contributed reviews of books they had read and thanks also to Kris Brown who put together the list of books and the reviews.

In March, three women attended the Spring Celebration held in Batavia, II. This was for all women of the Central Conference. It was a time of worship, workshops, eating good food and celebrating together.

September brought the annual fall retreat at beautiful Covenant Harbor. Three women from Arbor attended this retreat. It was a good time of and worship with other Central Conference women. At this time the women of Arbor along with other churches in the Badger District are planning and hosting this year's Spring Celebration. This will be held at the Comfort Inn East in March. Many thanks to the women of Arbor who are helping with this in some way.

Respectfully submitted, Ruth Hallblade

The Good Neighbors Personal Essentials Pantry

For nearly 8 years Arbor Covenant has been collaborating with Memorial United Church of Christ and All Saints Lutheran Church, both in Fitchburg, to provide a personal essentials pantry for our neighbors who struggle with chronic poverty, illness or dysfunctional relationships which limit their ability to obtain personal and household hygiene products which are often prohibitively expensive when trying to fit them into already lean budgets. These products include toothpaste, laundry detergent, diapers, sanitary products, dish detergent and other necessities that we all use every day.

Every Friday morning from 10:00 am to Noon and one Thursday evening each month, our guests are welcomed with coffee and Panera goodies to the Arbor Fellowship Room where they meet with one of our volunteers and choose the products they need for the week or month. Over the years, the Pantry has become a community of diverse individuals and families who share stories of their lives, their children and their experiences in what for many of them is a new country. Many languages are spoken but, somehow, we have learned to understand and care for each other. Because our guests realize that respect and caring are among the Pantry's most important attributes, smiles are abundant, children play well with each other and all people, whether volunteers or guests, feel valued.

The Pantry is solely supported by churches, individuals and businesses, and receives no government funding which means that we do not have to share any information or data about our guests with any official agency. We serve approximately 30-70 families per week. Although products are free to our guests, we spend $400-$700 per week at wholesale cost. Amazingly, even though we were once down to less than $10 in the checking account, we have never had to close our doors because of lack of funds

The Good Neighbors Personal Essentials Pantry is a living example of the abundant grace of God given and shared with all of us.

Report on Leadership Team Planning Efforts in 2019

The Leadership Team and Congregation spent considerable time in 2019 on a fundamental question. What will be the future direction of Arbor Covenant Church? This question has many aspects, but with a core principal: a conscious dependence on the Holy Spirit. The questions on the future emanated from the realities that we as a congregation are facing with:

- Declining membership and attendance in some areas, although stable to growing numbers in youth ministry. These patterns are due in part to the natural aging of members, some members moving away, and limited recruitment of new participants.
- Declining local contributions largely attributable to declining numbers
- Difficulty of connecting in our immediate community with some ministries, although increasing outreach with a newer ministry with the Personal Essentials Pantry

In the face of these challenges, the Leadership Team developed and brought some possibilities to the Congregation in June. Four potential directions were initially described as:

- 1. Call to our neighborhood reimagining the use of our property
- 2. Call to our community relocating to a more visible location
- 3. Call to community reclaiming our heritage
- 4. Recognize that our call at Arbor has come to an end after 50 plus years, and we may merge as a congregation

As we begin our work in 2020, it appears that we are being called to move forward as a community on a path that has two main themes. The first theme is growth in vibrancy and numbers through collaboration and/or merger with one or more other congregations. The second theme is expanding the use of our property for mission efforts that include expanded activities on our site including lowand moderate-income housing, pre-school, PEP pantry, worship, and prayer.

Our discussions and early collaborative efforts include Foundry 414 as well as discussion with the two Moravian congregations in Madison. Our ministry possibilities on site have been inspired by discussions with Commonwealth Development.

A meeting with Justice Castenada (Executive Director), Ashley Gohlke (Development Operations Director), and Stefan Davidson (Finance Director) and Paul Kent, Peter Morris, and Mark Hanson on January 28, 2020 verified that Commonwealth Development is very interested in working with Arbor in developing the Arbor site. Commonwealth is clear that it's interested in services for the community on site as well as 40 to 60 housing units. At that scale, Commonwealth will provide an onsite residential manager for a property that they would own long-term.

Any decisions or commitments will be decided by the congregation. The possibilities include potentially keeping the existing church building as the worship, pre-school, pantry, and enhanced community center or deconstructing the existing building and providing all those capabilities within a new, larger building(s) with underground parking. Depending on which congregation(s) Arbor may want to merge or collaborate with, worship services could be on our existing site, or could be at some other existing church with the Arbor site serving as a mission center in the community.

If Arbor pursues the path of working with Commonwealth Development, the nature of the tax credit funding that is used for a project of very roughly $10 million suggests that Arbor would sell some or all the existing property to Commonwealth. Such a development would require close work with our neighbors and be approved by the City of Madison. A church serving our neighbors in multiple ways may be a church that engages our neighbors and draws some into a community following Christ.

If Arbor is interested in following this path with Commonwealth Development, we will need to let Commonwealth know that in the coming couple of weeks with what our requirements might be. Commonwealth could then develop an offer over the following six weeks for Arbor to review and dialogue with Commonwealth on to identify a project that Arbor and Commonwealth would both support. It would lay out development possibility(s) on the site, the time needed to complete that (4 or 5 years), payment to Arbor for the property, Arbors' rights/condo ownership to use parts of the development, and annual earnest payments during the period the property is being developed but before purchase.

Are we being called to this vision? That's something to seek the Spirit's guidance on.

Mark Hanson Vice-Chair

Post Annual Meeting Update:

Spring/Summer Intern David Schultz

The Church decided to approve the proposal to bring on David to partner with us from February until June. A brief word of introduction:

David grew up in Eau Claire, moved to Madison for college, completed his MDiv in 2018 (Boston University) and is glad to be back in Wisconsin.

Alongside Arbor Covenant, he interns at foundry414 church and works for UW-Madison's Center for Religion and Global Citizenry, an interfaith organization on campus. When he's not working, David enjoys books, music, movies, yoga, cooking, conversation, friends, family – and more

Continuing/Deepening Conversation with Commonwealth Development

The congregation voted to move forward in conversations with Commonwealth Development. The next steps will be for the church to decide what we want out of a possible development, either groups, spaces, or specific buildings, and communicate this with Commonwealth. They will then explore options and look at viability.

David Schultz

2020 Budget

The congregation adopted the 2020 budget. It is based largely on predictions of those who regularly give. The budget itself has a deficit of about $9,000 which can be paid out of reserved funds. We will check on the budget at the June meeting.

Nominating Committee

Nominating Committee selected: Chuck Gietzel, Deb McGill, and Elrene Lund. They will be nominating Leadership Team members to replace Mark Hanson (finishing 2nd term), Dan Meyer (resigning after 1 year), and Paul Kent (agreed to serve 1 year in 2019).
